“I attended a conference on brain cancer. One of the presenting doctors (Dr. Joon Uhm) is on the cutting edge of Glioblastoma research and treatment. He came over and talked to me before the presentation, and after. I was very interested in seeing him for an appointment in Rochester at Mayo. He gave me his card, told me to email him, and tell him I'm the guy with a weird name (Leman), and purple jeans. I am so excited. Going to that conference might have saved my life.” Leman
